Task 1: Educational social media post – Active bystander awareness – The 5 D's

Describe the task and how you approached it

We created and shared an educational social media post explaining the accreditation and the 5 D's of being an active bystander. The content was designed to be clear, accessible and relevant to our members. using simple language and examples to encourage engagement and understanding.

We dedicated a week to SASHA and regularly posted about events and highlighted our welfare network throughout.

What was the response to this?

Members engaged positively with the post: liking and sharing it. It prompted discussion around what active bystanding can look like at socials and events. It also lead to an increased number of members engaging with our welfare system.

What is the impact of this action (predicted or already realized)

LUU Group SASHA Accreditation Report

This action has increased awareness of practical ways members can step in safely if they notice concerning behavior, helping to build confidence and shared responsibility within the society.

Task 2: SASHA Charity Salsa Class

Describe the task and how you approached it

We ran a SASHA-themed salsa class where all proceeds were donated to SARSVL. A short introduction was given at the start of the class by Lucy (events sec) to highlight consent, safer socialising, and the purpose of the accreditation.

What was the response to this?

The class engaged well listening to the talk and looking at handouts.

What is the impact of this action (predicted or already realised)

This helped raise awareness around the accreditation process and importance of SASHA to our members.

Task 3: SASHA Themed Craft Social

Describe the task and how you approached it

LUU Group SASHA Accreditation Report

We hosted a SASHA themed craft session in Helix, where members created posters and badges focused on consent, active bystanding, and safer salsa spaces. The session was designed to be relaxed and inclusive, encouraging open discussion alongside creative activity.

What was the response to this?

Members engaged enthusiastically, with many contributing ideas and reflections on how to make society events safer and more welcoming.

What is the impact of this action (predicted or already realised)

This activity create a creative welcoming environment where members could relax and express themselves. Materials created can be reused at future events.
