Amy Jones for Media and Communications Secretary

About Me…

- I am a first year Economics and Finance student.
- I've done gymnastics throughout my childhood and am qualified Level 1 coach, with 3 years of coaching experience.
- Gymnastics society has been the highlight of my first year – so many unforgettable memories and even getting over some of my mental blocks ayyyy!
- I am a very committed member, regularly attending training and socials and have competed in multiple competitions this year at novice and intermediate level and loved every single minute.

My goals for next year!

> My main goal is to show the more relatable side of gymnastics on our socials – mental blocks, the time and effort progress takes and the reality of fails along the way. I think this would be really engaging because every gymnast can relate, and it can reassure our members and viewers that they're not alone.

> Get on trends asap and go viral!!!

> Make and edit vlogs as much as I can.

> Keep all members informed about events and important information in a timely manner – using posts, stories, etc.

> I will actively work to make sure newcomers feel safe, welcomed and encouraged from their first session. I will continue to bring an approachable, friendly and positive vibe with me wherever I go ☺.

Why am I suited for this role?

In sixth form I was house captain, and I currently work as a Kitchen Manager for a catering company and run their social media. I create and post content weekly (often more), so I understand the importance of consistency, timing and regular engagement. I am a very organised person with good time-management skills (I am often the first person to arrive for things…) and have insight into how content works, planning posts and know what is/ isn't engaging. I have also developed strong leadership and communication skills throughout these roles. I love UOLGC and am genuinely enthusiastic about promoting our society. Furthermore, my screen time is horrendous, so I'm always up to date with the latest trends!

Fun fact: I've actually already created some Christie Cup vlogs, which I think were great not to brag, so I already have experience in this exact role!
