I love being organised and I love debating (my family usually gets the worst of it) for this society I would:

- Organise regular and interesting events: weekly debate sessions but also themed debates! dress like your argument, try not to laugh, strip debating (and no i will not expand on that), drunk debates, paint 'n' debate but also serious public debates, competitive debates, and any suggestions you may have!
- I also aim to connect with different societies and debating societies in different universities to give you the best, most enriched experience
- I will liase with the marketing rep to make sure all of you know and can join all these events!
