

Social Secretary

Why I want to be social secretary

- I love helping to lead and organise activities making me a perfect candidate as I will get the job done while also ensuring it is fun for everyone.
- When I joined the society, I had a lot of questions and interests so by controlling the emails I will be able to help new members as much as possible by actively checking them.
- By being able to assist the president it will enable me to help with key decision making and keep all information for the society up to date. Being able to support them really appeals to me as you can collaboratively come together to ensure everyone has a good time while also keeping it ethical and cost effective.
- I like to take charge of things making me a good planner and organiser as I don't like to solely rely on other people. I like to work as a team to ensure things are done well, meaning everyone can have the best time they can.
- Having the responsibility to help maintain the society is something which interests me as it allows me to have a healthy hobby which provides an escape from my other subjects.

About me

My name is Becky, and I am just finishing first year studying English Literature and Sociology. I am always eager to meet new people and try new things and despite not having a massive background in fashion I feel my positive attitude enables me to keep up to speed with people that do. In school I took a great interest in textiles and art and went on to purchase my own sewing machine and learn about patterns and how to construct garments myself. This drive to learn shows I am a dedicated character who is looking to have fun with like-minded people and hopefully continue developing my knowledge of the fashion industry.

Future ideas

- My future ideas for the society, if I was to be voted social secretary, would include booking more rooms on a weekly basis for people to meet up and watch films etc, as I have sometimes found it difficult to motivate myself to leave my flat and need something to help push me to do so.
- Contact more small brands in hopes of collaborating with each other to provide fun activities for us to complete such as the phone charm making class.
- Get the society together for more going out events – fancy dress themed events would be fun because people could thrift, make, borrow or re wear costumes.

I would love to be a part of the fashion society, thank you for reading! <3
