

Charlie Baker For Poker Pressie

Impeccable poker face

- Calls flop and turn with pocket twos (safe and reliable bankroll bonus)
- Chronic limper (punish me please)
- Limp raises with aces and 7-2 (re-raise me, see what happens)
- Your out-of-line backdoor flush draw calls will always be rewarded if you vote for me
- Day 1 Poker Soc G
- Shows cards in reflective sunglasses
- Cracked Aces, completed it mate.
- Currently #1 and #2 biggest cash out in UoL cash games (check me out)
- Will be in 4th year – lots of experience with societies. (I will have plenty time for the soc).

Yeah, but what it do tho?

- Primarily: more inter-university competitions, organised coaches, big planned day events and mix-society socials in other cities for those who want to play some poker, have a good night out, and see some other cities.
- Progression over Ps. Encourage people to communicate – what are your tells? Where did you get out of line? How did your body language / bet sizing make me feel? Was this to your benefit or not?
- Potential for a non-serious inter-game event with Nottingham hockey girls if people want to be involved.

- I'll introduce a small bad-beat prize from the soc membership (for full houses over full house+ for both players).
- Sid gets a handicap (and maybe handcuffed) for being the jammiest dodger in the pack.
- Put a big smile on my face and encourage lots of new players at freshers fair.
- Will turn requests into action. On it like a car bonnet.
- Pres at gaff & then socials. I would personally recommend socials every other week so that we get a good turn out – but will of course cater to requests.
- Encourage a happy and friendly environment on the group chat to ask questions, vote in polls for what style of game people want each week, and contribute ideas.

Here's a photo of some poker chips:

In all seriousness, university societies are there to develop friendships and have a community in which you feel valued. I'll do everything to make that possible and create an inclusive atmosphere of fun but also progression.
