Bonjour mes amis! I'm Georgia, Leeds Snowriders' coolest, edgiest, speediest boarder (pls don't fact check that). After spending this year stuck in an office all day, I'm ready to swap my corporate girlie title for 24/25 holiday sec. Entering my 4th year as a Snowrider, I feel absolutely confident that I can bring you some of the best voyages au ski ever !!!!

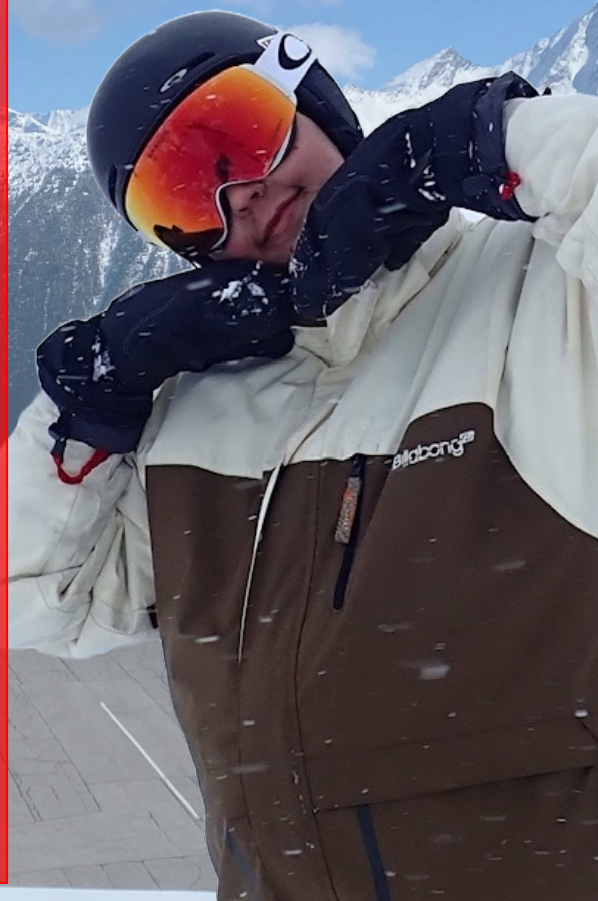

What will I bring to LS 24/25?

- Joss
- Having done 6 trips with Snowriders I have a pretty good sense of what makes trips run smoothly & areas that could be improved
- Working in both the corporate world & in hospitality has given invaluable experience in developing all those very important soft skills (organisation, meeting deadlines, building team & professional relationships etc) – I'm not afraid to approach bars/restaurants/clubs/hotels/rental shops /wasteland folks to secure the best deals & discounts for everyone
- Absolutely live for excel spreadsheets (it's my job I have no choice) – can promise a year of intense planning & organisation, but means I'll always be on top of things
- Want to ensure there is actual effective communication with wasteland & the rest of the committee – vital for successful running of our trips!

TEAM GB
SHES THE ONE FOR ME!

But do I have any good ideas?

- Discount for those booking onto multiple trips
- Ramp up our pre trip socials to allow everyone to mingle & meet before the trips, making sure people aren't afraid of coming on their own or in a small group & don't feel excluded
- As more people are choosing to fly out to resort, set up a system for coordinating flight & transfer details – will help people find others to split transport etc with to make flying as an affordable option as possible
- On-trip awards ceremony (time to crown our biggest jerrys)
- Ask the people what they want to see on trip! DJs/themed nights/any other activities we could do as a group like ice skating
- Did someone say Snowriders Euro weekender....?
